THIS WEEK

“HERZONOR?”

Putting her tremendous political influence to good use, “Boss” HOLLY GUERIN has summoned Monrovia’s newly elected mayor, Mary Ann Lutz, to speak with us. What are the current challenges facing our fair city? Will the state keep the cities’ money in order to reduce the state deficit and, if so, what happens then? Come to the meeting and get these and all of your questions answered from someone in the know.

LAST WEEK

THE BOWDEN COLLECTION

FRED BOWDEN has discovered a non -IRA, non-401(k) non-mutual funds way to accumulate a retirement pot. His way takes elbow (and other bits) grease, perseverance, money and some luck. He acquires and restores classic automobiles and sells them on occasion for a tidy profit. He has 10 cars in his collections now and at least two motorcycles. With help from Jeff Hunt, FRED described his strategy and then conducted a guided tour of two of his favorite cars which were parked outside. A very interesting program.

THE DREDED VISITOR SONG

Since we tend to forget the words if we don’t recite them every week, we sang the DVS to Jeff Hunt, FRED BOWDEN’S able assistant in presenting the program.

The Marble Madness Game?

Although management denies it, TMMG appears to have gone the way of Chrysler, having been replaced by 50/50 all of the time. Now I have to change the heading for this section. Oh, CHRIS OWENS was last week's big winnah.

$ WHINE TIME $

BILL WADDELL, justifiably proud that his son was graduating from Yale, self-assessed to the tune of $200. Confusion ensued when ALFREDO MEJIA and RYAN GARCIA were asked to stand. Somehow, JULIE GENTILE and CHRIS SHEVLIN were brought into the fray, and when the dust settled, ALFREDO was tapped for $25 and cousin RYAN for $12.50 rounded to $15.

Have a nice week.
See you Thursday
